» SUMMARY

I'm a web designer and front-end developer who knows a thing or two about HTML emails, on-page SEO, and website speed.

I enjoy creating attractive, search-friendly web pages that load quick. I prefer writing front-end code by hand. I enjoy making small changes on existing pages as much building large templates from scratch. I see low hanging fruit on most websites, think code is sometimes poetry, and believe any interface would be better if there were less of it.
