» SUMMARY

I'm a web designer and front-end developer who knows a thing or two about HTML emails, on-page SEO, and website speed.

I am a web designer who writes front-end code by hand. I like creating attractive, search-friendly web pages that load quick. I enjoy making small changes on existing pages as much building large templates from scratch.

I see low-hanging fruit on most websites, think code is sometimes poetry, and believe any interface would be better if there were less of it.
